

Week of April 19

This week, I have books about ducks playing hide and seek, dinosaurs riding a train and a crocodile that likes to eat watermelon! There are also new links and activities.

Enjoy!

Here are some suggested activities to do with your child this week. Enjoy!

1. Blowing Paint: Water down washable paint. Drip the paint onto paper. Then have your child blow on the paint using a straw.
2. Have your child move like different modes of transportation. For example, move like an airplane, train, boat, riding a skateboard, bike, etc... Talk about different types of transportation.
3. Make a name puzzle. Write your child's name in large letters on paper. Then cut the paper into strips by cutting between each letter. Have your child put together the letter puzzle pieces.
4. Pick two or three colors of construction paper. Then cut the paper into small squares. Have your child make patterns using the color squares (blue, red, blue, red, blue red or more difficult patterns such as blue, red, yellow, blue, red, yellow, etc...).
5. At meal times, talk about the food you are eating and the temperature of the food. For example, the strawberries are cold, but the grilled cheese is hot. Talk about other things that are cold, warm and hot.
