

Week of December 21

This is our last week of activities before the New Year. I have stories about the holidays and a silly story about a monster in our book! There are also a few fun activities and new songs. I hope everyone has a wonderful holiday and Happy New Year!

Enjoy!

There's A Monster In Your Book! by Tom Fletcher

Oh no!! How did a monster get in our book?? He is a cute little monster!
Can you help me get him out of the book?

Here are some suggested activities to do with your child this week.

Enjoy!

1. Cinnamon Applesauce Ornaments: See below for the link to the recipe. Have your child help measure, pour and mix the ingredients. Talk about what you are doing by using words such as "pouring" "mixing" "measuring" "rolling" etc... Ask your child, "what are you doing?" (I am mixing!). This is a fun activity that siblings can do too!

2. Build a fort using pillow and blankets! Play or read books in the fort!

3. Shape Freeze dance! Play some music and dance. When the music stops, freeze. Then draw a shape and have your child copy the shape. Play the music again. When you freeze, draw a different shape and have your child copy.
