

Week of June 14

This week, I have books about a colorful elephant named Elmer, a dog that gets really dirty named Harry and a big creature called a Gruffalo! There are also new links and activities.

This week will be the last week for the preschool community resources. I hope your children enjoyed the activities and books this year! Have a wonderful summer!

Enjoy!

Here are some suggested activities to do with your child this week. Enjoy!

1. Paint with corn syrup on wax paper! See what happens when you paint with corn syrup and talk about how it feels. You can also add in food coloring to the corn syrup.
2. Use paper towel tubes or other similar items to make tunnels for small cars. See if your child can build up to make the tube a ramp. What happens when the ramp is higher? lower?
3. Use a turkey baster to blow a feather or other light items across the floor or table. Then give your child other items of different weights to try to move with the turkey baster. Talk about if the item moves, why or why not.
4. Put shaving cream (not gel) on a table or tray and let your child play with it. Your child can use his/her finger to write or draw in the shaving cream.
5. Wrap small plastic letters, numbers or other small item that you may have at home in foil (wrap individually). Then give your child the wrapped items and have him/her unwrap them and then tell you the letter/number or items that they uncovered.
